

Chemicals

- Ⓐ You have to deliver hazardous material safely and reliably
- Ⓑ Our high levels of SHEQ and performance help you to create value

State of play

Increasingly, chemical manufacturers and suppliers are at pains to minimise their impact on the environment and contribute to local community upliftment.

As a supply chain and logistics services provider in the chemicals industry, excellent SHEQ scores, strong BBBEE credentials and a healthy balance sheet are as important as the ability to deliver high value. Today, these are prerequisites for doing business in the chemicals industry.

Logistics and supply chain innovation

Strategically: Safety and service levels have always been the most important strategic focus points for our chemicals business. Today, empowerment is just as important.

We embraced the quest to achieve the highest possible SHEQ and BBBEE scores some years ago. Today, we continue to innovate new ways in which to improve service levels. Cargo Carriers has a well-developed business with the capacity and track record to extend business relationships as a player in the chemicals arena.

Our sound financial position allows us to invest in our client's supply chains even during difficult times, and yields advantage to the partnerships between our clients and ourselves.

Operationally: To improve our service delivery, we have undertaken an extensive renewal of our fleet. This new generation of vehicles – pressurised and non-pressurised – is more fuel efficient and capable of carrying larger payloads.

We have partnered with a local supplier to develop a unique chemical liquid bulk tanker. Clad in a new lightweight material, the tankers are fitted with rear-view cameras, next-generation ABS and EBD braking systems, computerised fault-finding systems and a suspension system that reduces tyre wear.

The technology upgrades to our fleet have led to an increase in payloads, while maintenance costs, downtime, tyre-wear, fuel consumption and carbon emissions have all been reduced – all benefits that are passed on to our clients.

We have also installed a state-of-the-art washbay at our Sasolburg depot to clean the inside of Cargo Carriers tankers. This enables us to get our vehicles back on the road much faster.

In the event of a road spill or spillage at the loading or offloading point, Cargo Carriers has a national agreement in place to handle containment, clean-up and rehabilitation if required.

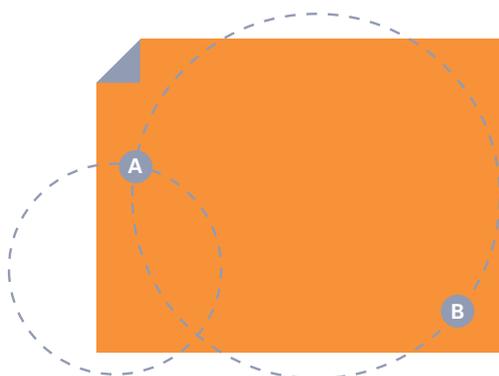

We are continually investing in the improvement of our SHEQ scores, but investing in our people is as important. The training and re-training of our drivers has helped us to develop world-class bulk vehicle operators who are capable of handling the most hazardous materials.
